Today 3:15pm, Prospector Theater:

The Arc of an Academic Career

Join us for a panel discussion with a moderator on careers in academia. While many people are aware of the standard track of graduate school, postdoc, and tenure line appointment, there are many questions on how to make this work and many other paths that a mathematical career can take in academia. Six panelists will discuss their experiences, answering questions about how they got where they are, obstacles they faced, juggling research, teaching, family, and service, and anything else the audience raises.
